Alone

Remembering

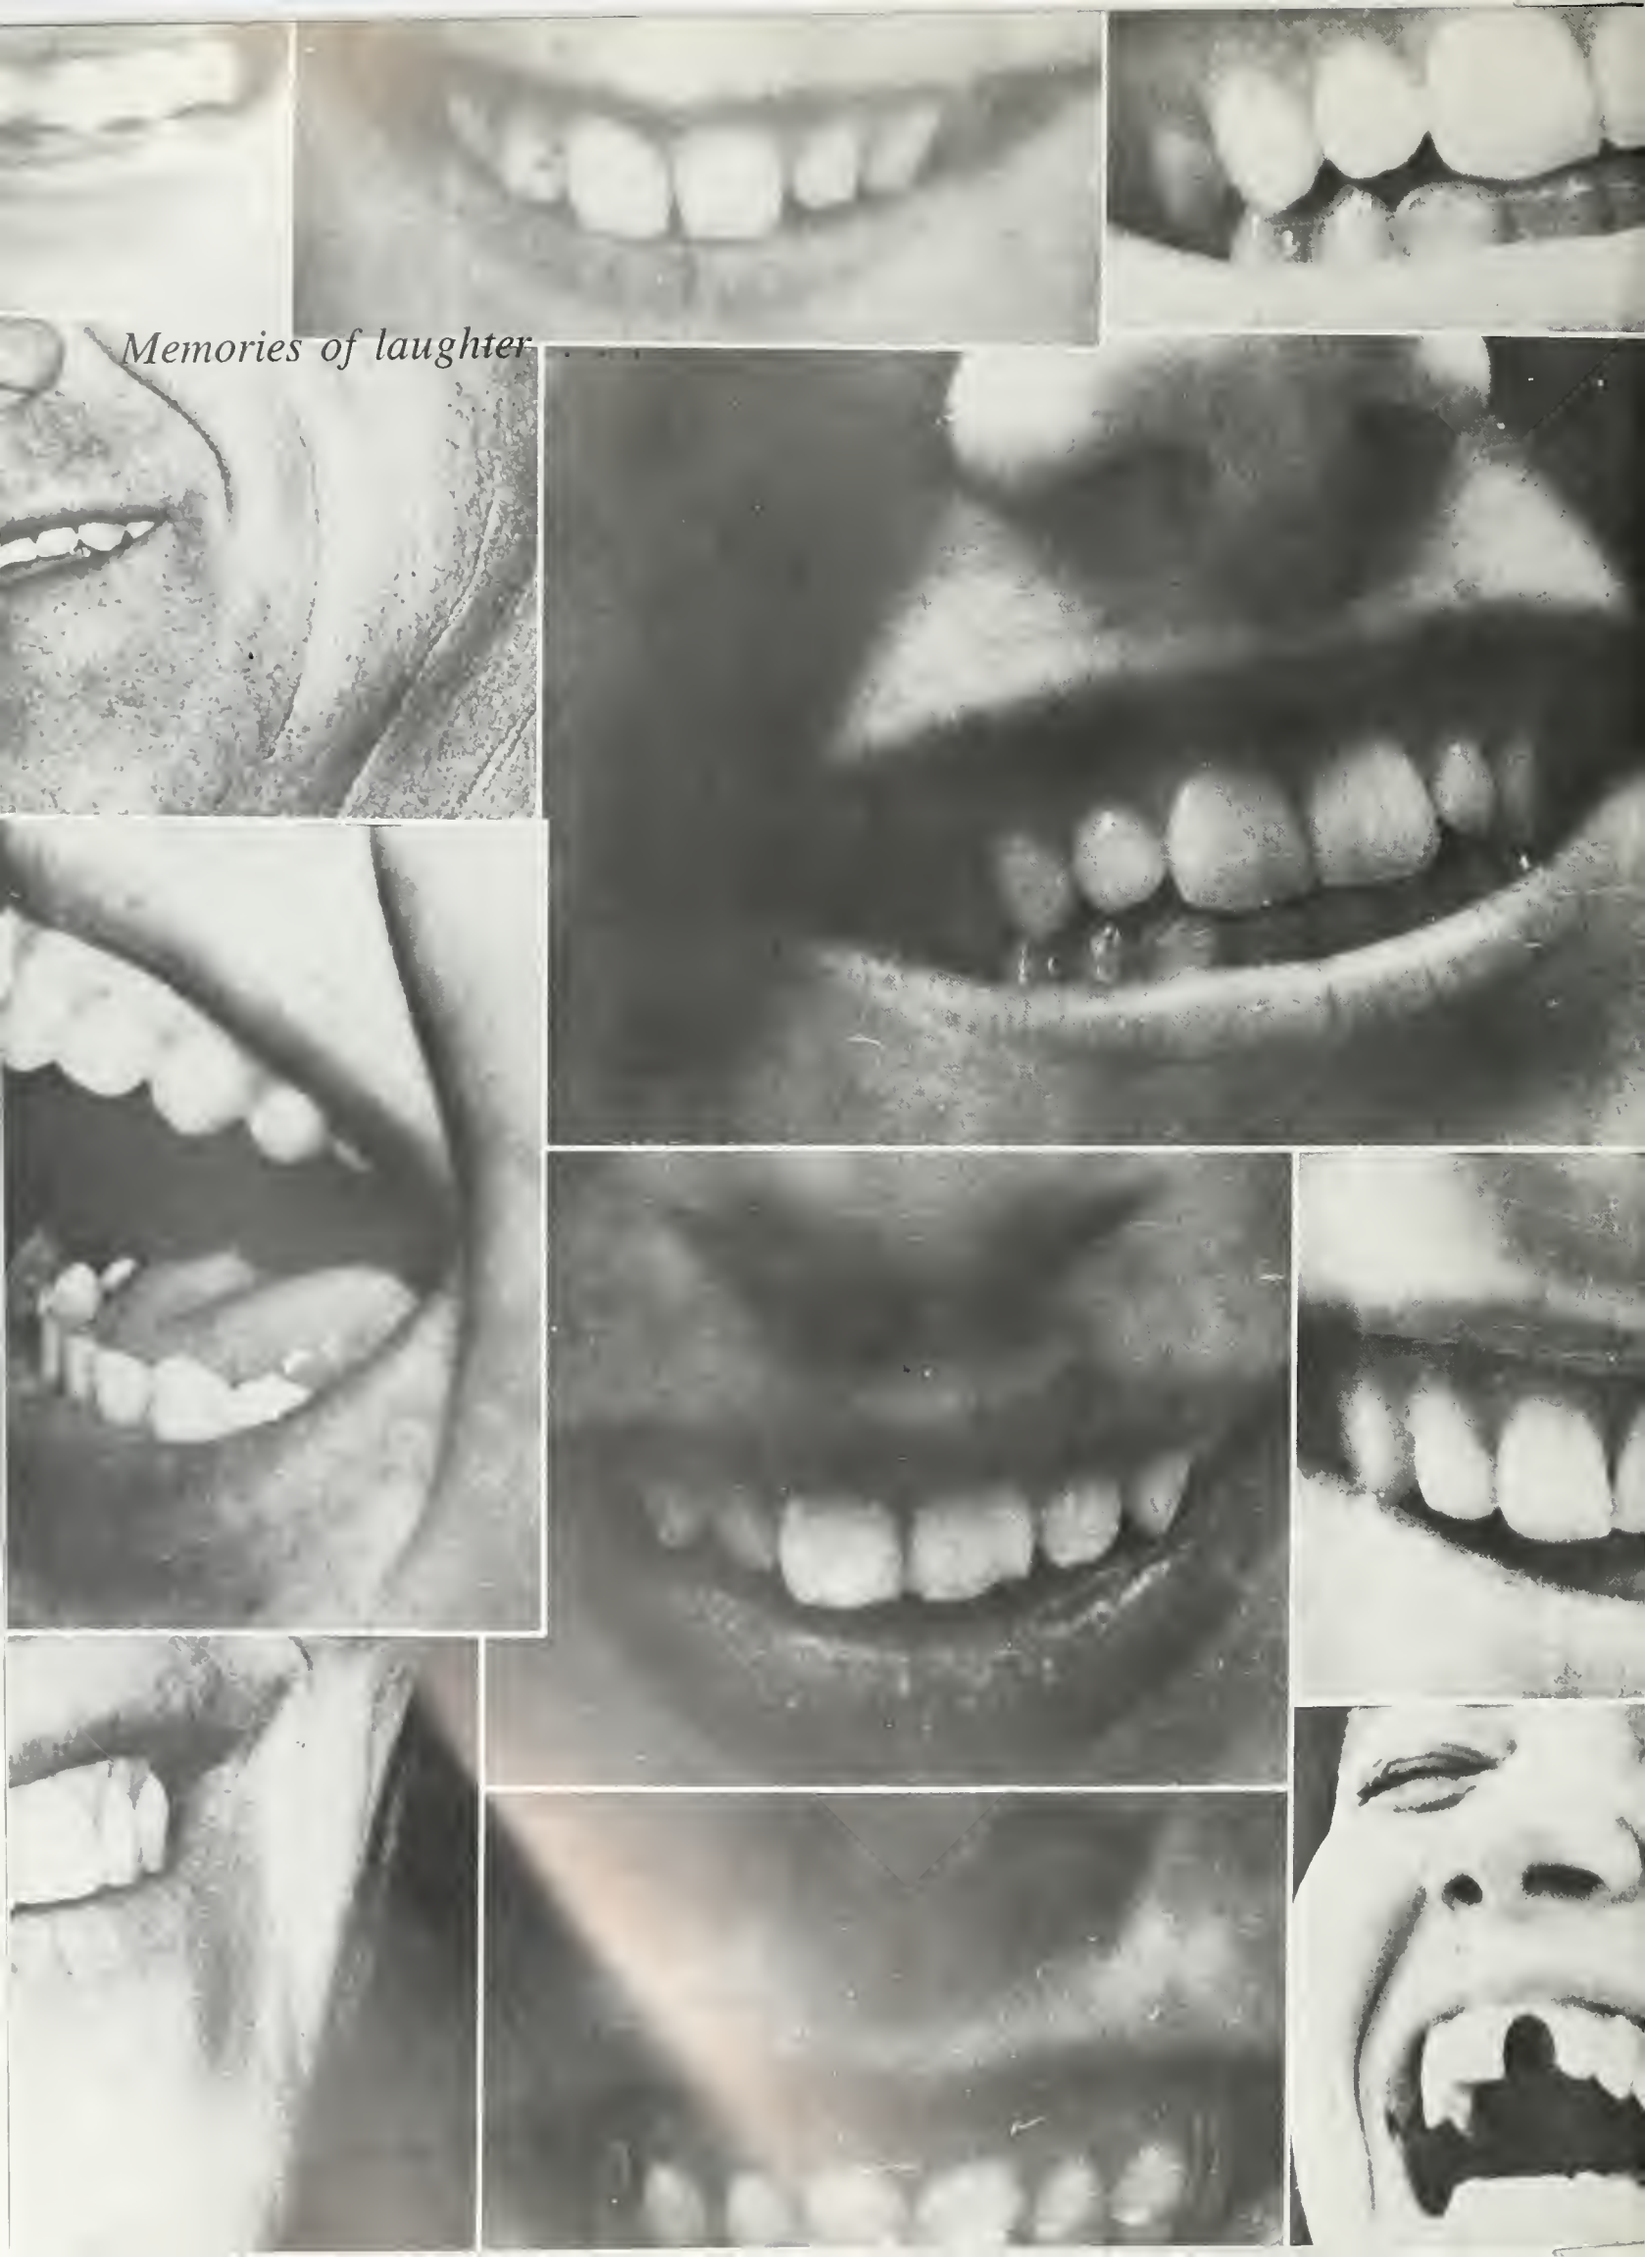
What better time to bring back faded photographs.

The memories of time past
Covered now with lines and creases.

Tickets torn in half
Memories of bits and pieces.

Traces of . . .
Memories of the fulfillment of wishes
And those that will remain so.

Secret moments noone ever knew.



Memories of laughter

. . . And tears.
Remember when . . .

If only . . .

Hidden in the dusty corners of your heart.

Upon which we build our lives

Our futures in a new and exciting world

Full of memories.

arriving early to talk

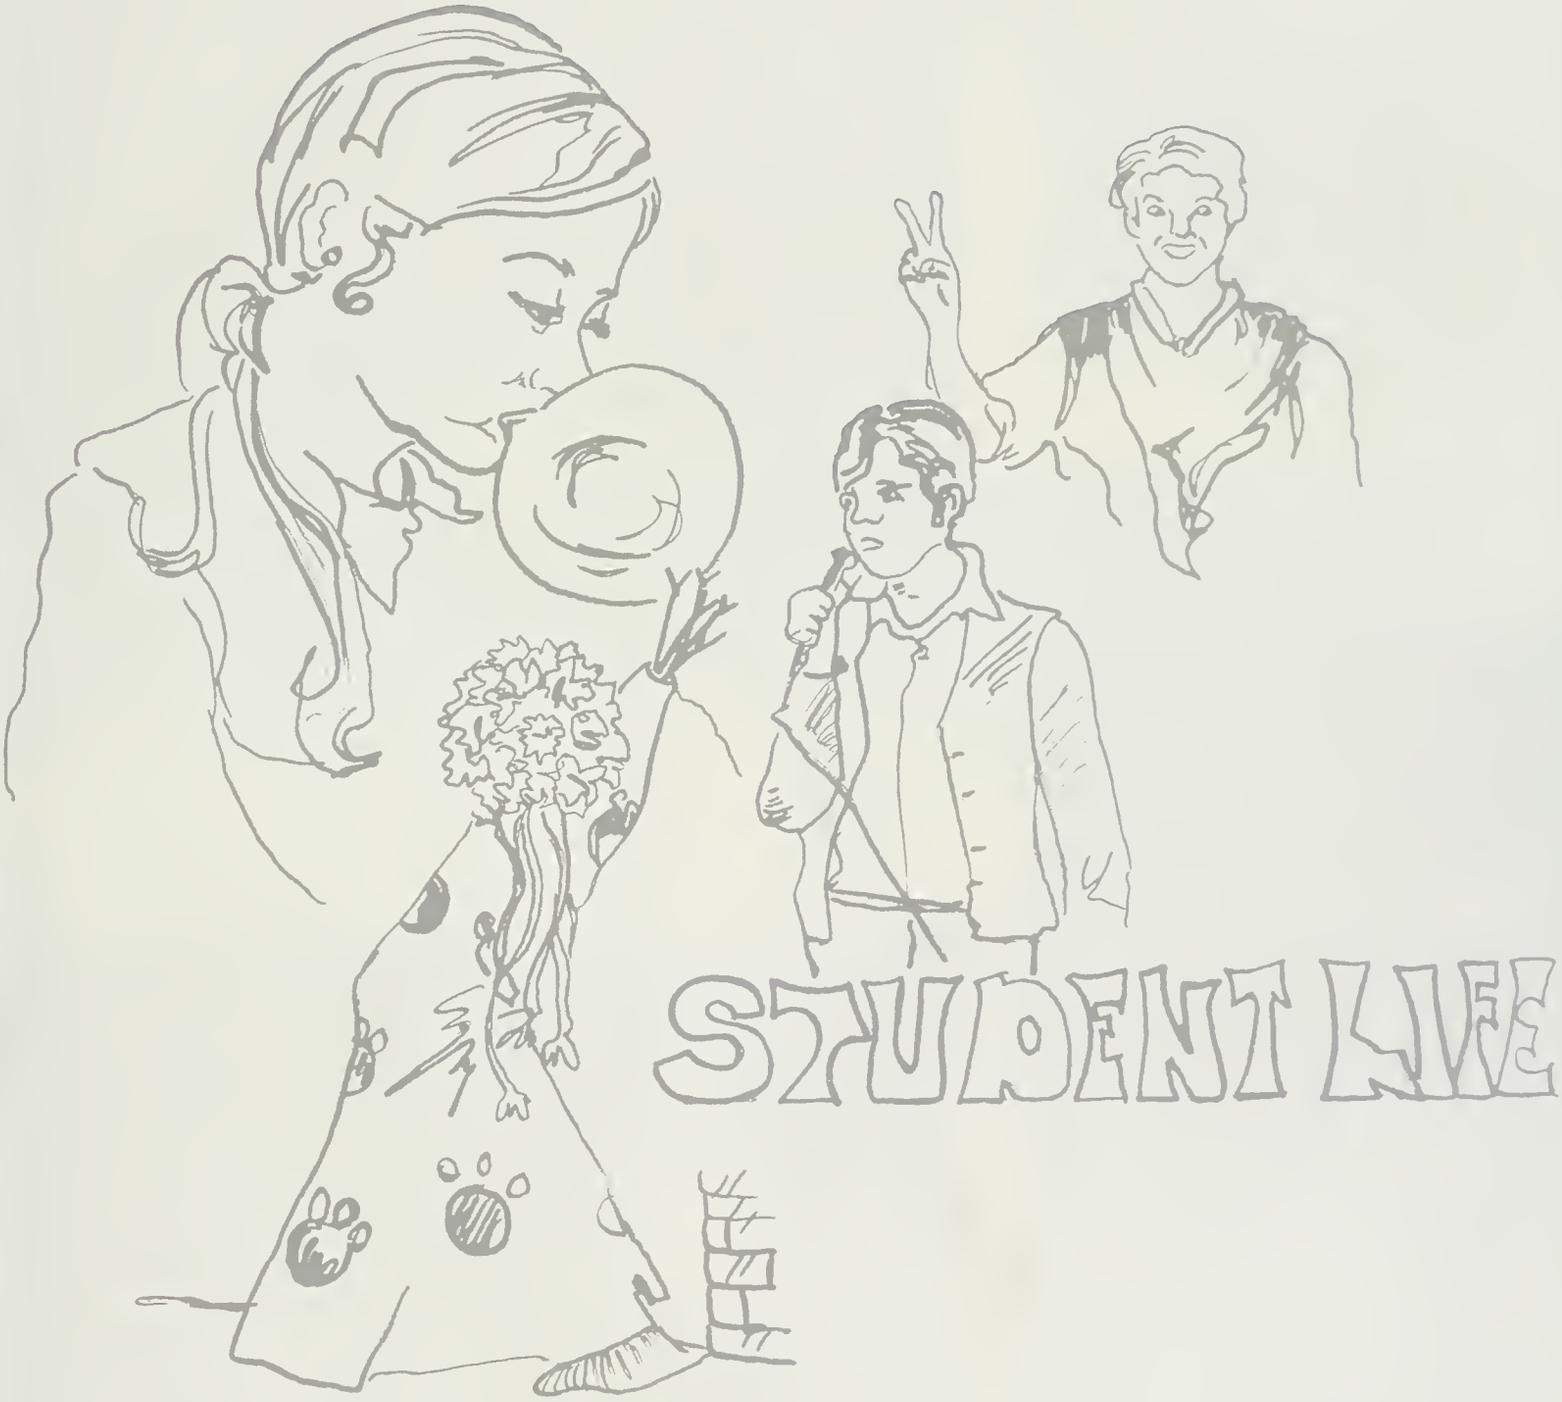
a ride to the game...
an attitude that wins
respect and admiration



STUDENT LIFE

Witches come alive in "The Crucible"

Reinacting history was the main theme behind the 1971 Senior Class Play, "The Crucible." The excitement of actually doing a play that happened, showing the feelings and emotions that have been buried for over 300 years, was only part of the challenge the cast members had to meet.

"The Crucible", different from the previous senior plays, was a deep emotional drama based on the witch trials near Boston in the 1640's. The play met with great controversy from the school and audience as being hard to understand and imagine. But each member of the cast and those who attended has received a brief feeling of fear and doubt, dug from the past Salem witches, burned and buried.

Above: Judge Danforth tells of the fate that awaits the girls if they lie. Sitting on the bench are: Lauren Stratz, Carole Horstman, Marylou Nye, Sybil Petersen, and Marti Martindale. Stan Brunner portrays Judge Danforth.

Below: "My face, my face?" screams Abigail Williams. Lauren Strotz supposedly sees a bird.

Below: Betty, whose soul has been overcome by the devil, crys out in delirium, "I can fly, I can Fly!"

Record turnout enjoys Wilson's "Music Man"

"What this town needs is a boys' band!" And so started Harold Hill's swindling pitch to the citizens of River City. Meredith Wilson's "Music Man", was presented by the Fine Arts Department as its spring musical.

Mark Bloomquist earned the honor of portraying Harold Hill, the "Music Man". Robbie Grissom played the roll of Marian Paroo, the librarian who finally changes Harold's purpose in life. Other major roles were Mayor Shinn portrayed by Bob Aspy, and his wife Eulalie McKeknie Shinn played by Judy Meyer. Dancers, townspeople and children were portrayed by scores of other students.

The combined efforts of the directors, cast, stage crew, and orchestra can be attributed to the immediate success of "Music Man". For the first time in the history of Snider, the play was put on an extra night so more people could have the opportunity to see it. The cast performed to sell out crowds for four consecutive nights.

Below: River City citizens anticipate the arrival of the Wells Fargo Wagon and speculate on what is being delivered.

Above: Two little boys torment the members of the "Del Sarte", more commonly known as the Grecian Urn ladies.

Above: Mayor Shinn, Bob Aspy, pompous as ever, leads the Fourth of July celebration in the school gym.

Below: Harold Hill and Marian Paroo realize that "Till There Was You," there was nothing.

Snider has its first combined Junior-Senior Prom

Top Left: The stone pathway to the beginning greeted each couple who passed over the entrance bridge. Top Right: The carrousel was the center of attraction at the prom. Its mobility helped to set the mood suggested by the theme. Below: Couples entering the ballroom view the carrousel before going off to socialize with other classmates.

"Sketchbook" cast takes trip on Lucky Duck Airlines

Harriers place third in State meet

A third place State finish capped off the most successful season ever for Coach Ron Wichern's cross country men. The high State rating followed a champion sweep at sectional and regional levels. In total, varsity runners churned out a 27—0 season mark while their City record came out at 9—0. Reserve harriers matched the efforts of their varsity counterparts by returning an 18—1 record. Team nets best record ever

The 1970 R. Nelson Snider tennis team compiled the best record in the history of that sport at the school. A total of 8 wins and 3 losses was tallied. Seniors Bill Strayer and Tom White won their sectionals double match which was followed by a regional third placing. Both players were undefeated in doubles matches during the season.

In their sectional doubles matches Strayer and White beat out players from South Side, Concordia, and East Noble. In the regional they lost out to a Peru combination after defeating Plymouth.

Most decisive victories were scored off of Manchester, Bishop Luers, and Homestead Highs. Each of those meets resulted in an opponent shut-out.

Earning letters for season play were seniors Dan Higgins, Doug Moeller, Greg Postel, Bill Strayer, and Tom White and junior Randy Moeller.

Dan Ruble guides seniors through final year

The senior class officers for the 1970-71 school year are Dan Ruble, President; Bill Wade, Vice-president; Pam Collins, Secretary; and Christy Whearley, Treasurer.

The Class of 1971—Snider's largest graduating class so far—contributed much time and effort to a record number of projects. Among these activities which the seniors provided the leadership for was an expanded Christmas project at the State School. They planned Yuletide parties with holiday gifts distributed to the patients by student Santa Clauses.

The seniors also headed most of the student committees which "took over" school operations during Concern Week—the five-day experiment in free-form education. Headed by Student Council vice-president Dennis Hall and his executive committee, the seniors did a large share of organizing this educational innovation.

Also, with their criticisms of old practices and suggestions for new ones, seniors were often instrumental in bringing about a change in school policy. Due to a council-originated movement, for example, student organizations were allowed to employ union bands for school dances, and, with the efforts of the senior class officers and faculty representatives, a new system of final testing was devised this year.

But the Class of '71 was not only hard-working; it was talented, too. In this year's senior drama, entitled The Crucible, an all-star cast of seniors, headed by Dan Ruble, Bill Cearbaugh, Janet Thorington, Lauren Strotz, and Robin Grissom, portrayed the characters in a town (Salem, Massachusettes) torn by false accusations of witchcraft. In The Music Man, seniors Robin Grissom, Mark Bloomquist, and Dan Ruble played the comical-musical leads.

Highlighting the spring for many seniors were the annual Senior Banquet and the Junior-Senior Prom. Combining the two individual class dances into one extravaganza was another first—a controversial one, at that—for Snider. Surrounded by a motif centering on the theme "We've Only Just Begun," under and upperclassmen danced to the music of Mr. Richard Seeger's orchestra.

Winding up the final week of school for seniors was the awards assembly. At that time, the seniors presented their gift to the school—money with which to purchase speakers for the auditorium—and four students were recognized for citizenship. While Linda Stedman and Joe Dye claimed the "I Dare You" awards, Kay Kinney and Mike Sidebottom walked away with the DAR and Kiwanis honors. And, for the first time in Snider's history, the valedictorian honors were shared—by Lauren Strotz and Janet Thorington. Along with salutatorian Ellen Seddon and the 36 seniors whose gowns were adorned with gold honor cords, Lauren and Janet led the seniors in their final convocation—the Commencement at the Coliseum.

Giauque heads junior class

Last September, a group of confused ex-sophomores entered Snider to begin a new year as confused juniors. The feelings of confusion and insecurity created by themes and chemistry problems eased when the juniors played debonair hosts to the sophomores during the Sophomore Mixer.

Shortly after returning from the Washington Trip and with term papers done, the Juniors were given a breakfast by the Sophomore class.

After proving themselves such capable party-givers at the Sophomore Mixer, the Juniors were given the responsibility of hosting the Junior-Senior Prom, "We've Only Just Begun". The prom had a good turnout which again showed that the juniors know how to give a party.

The juniors set further good examples during the year by winning the Spirit Stick several times.

With all of these things behind them, the Juniors have made it through another tough year. Some will return here next year and others will go to Northrup to finish their high school learning.

Doughnuts, milk, door prize greet Juniors early in morning

Dan Butler leads Sophomore Class as President

The largest class yet to enter the halls of Snider was the incoming sophomore class of '73. They showed their excitement and enthusiasm for their school by participating in the pep assemblies.

In the fall, the annual sophomore trip to Chicago highlighted fun and excitement. World History students went for a full day of visiting different sights throughout the city.

"Incense and Peppermint" was the theme of the annual sophomore class party. The party went into a full swing with the entertainment provided by the 'Lucy Gray' band.

Much appreciation was expressed by the sophomores at the annual Junior Breakfast. The sophomores served the juniors before school on April 29. President Dan Butler gave grace before the juniors started eating their meal consisting of donuts, milk, and juice.

Sophomores found gym class rewarding in many respects. Many activities that were undertaken were golf, boxing, bowling, tennis, badminton, baseball and track.

The class officers elected by the sophomores in the early fall were Dan Butler, president; Richard Porter, vice-president; Denise Moore, secretary; and Dawn Postel, treasurer. These officers served for the entire school year. The class sponsors are, Mrs. Helen Edwards and Mr. Al Hemmer.

Top Left: Students and faculty members made "asses" of themselves participating in a donkey basketball game. Top Right: A. V. workers watch a basketball game on a monitor T. V. Lower Left: The annual Sadie Hawkins Dance was again successful. Students dressed in traditional hillbilly fashion and entered a contest for the best dressed couple. Lower Right: The visit of President Nixon was a major event in the lives of many students who attended the rally.

Top: The business hall became patriotic with its display of the American flag on the bulletin board. Right: All students who attended school a full day were required to eat lunch in the cafeteria. Lower Left: A policeman watches a ballgame while on duty at the school. Lower Right: Ginger West and Scott Motes sit at a table waiting to help schedule students for concern week.

Below: Even girls can be handy in shop as was proven by Charisse Pitcock.

"Concern Week" revives interests of students

As June rolls around, the school ground empties and only a few people remain to put the finishing touches on the year.

As the last pages of the '71 SAFARI go off to press, memories of all the year's events come to mind. In spite of rushing to meet each coming deadline, the 1971 SAFARI finally made it. Between these pages lie so many moments of despair and satisfaction, that the SAFARI has become a record of memories of the students and faculty. New ideas, hard work, and a dedicated staff contributed to the personality of this yearbook.

The 1971 SAFARI is not complete until the staff expresses its appreciative thanks to those who helped us. I wish to thank Mr. Jim Arthur, our consultant from the American Yearbook Company, who helped the book through many rough spots. Thanks also goes to Watters Studio for taking our senior pictures and to Roberts Studio for the underclass photos. Fellow students, Linda Nelson, for her division pages, and Terry Flynn for his superb photography and the design of our cover, deserve a special recognition. Our deep gratitude goes out to Mrs. Mary Cunningham, our advisor, who put up with our many mistakes, our bad moods, and constant confusion.
